Dear Dr. McCoy:

It was a pleasure to become acquainted with you during the flight from Dallas to San Francisco last Friday evening. I considered the opportunity to visit with you a distinct pleasure and of much profit to me.

I have conveyed your regards to Stafford North in a letter to his office at Oklahoma Christian College in Oklahoma City. I was happy to learn of your association with him in previous years.

You will remember our conversation regarding your reading program for the first part of the summer. I would like to have the authors and titles of the Roman Catholic theological works that you are reading this summer. Your suggestion of any other books of current importance in the ethics field will also be appreciated.

Thank you so much for a very pleasant visit last week.

Sincerely yours,

John Allen Chalk
